Registering for classes in My Timetable

My Timetable allows students to create and view their personal timetable from MyCQU.

This system is available to HE on-campus students, and mixed-mode students who are required to register for residential schools.

To complete your timetable you must first enrol in your unit/s. For assistance with enrolling in your unit/s please refer to the Enrol in MyCentre.

Once you have enrolled in unit/s you must access the 'My Timetable' option from MyCQU. My Timetable is available from the homepage of MyCQU Student Portal.

Welcome to My Timetable!

Each unit you have enrolled into will appear. If your unit/s do not appear hit 'Refresh'. If your unit/s still do not appear you may not have completed your enrolment and should return to MyCentre to check.

Selecting your Classes

Quick Question: What is a Class?

A class is a scheduled session, usually a lecture, tutorial or workshop, within a unit. A unit can have multiple classes and this is why you need to nominate in My Timetable!

If the system displays a 'Unit requires further classes to be selected' message with a red flag, you have two options.

When all choices have been made, click the ‘Save Choices’ button available at the top and bottom of the screen. You MUST select ‘Save Choices’ to complete your timetable.

Quick Question: What if I only have one class available for my unit/s?

In some instances there will be no options available to select. In other words, only one class is available, so you do not need to make a choice. You MUST still follow this process – either select ‘Make My Choices’ and let the system chose for you, or manually select each class.

Remember you MUST select ‘Save Choices’ to complete your timetable.

Your timetable will then appear on the page and will also be emailed to your CQUni Student Email Account, as will any subsequent changes that occur to the timetable. In addition to the email, your timetable will also be available in MyCQU at <http://sportal.cqu.edu.au> > View My Timetable.

Quick Question: Why isn't my timetable saving?

In most cases the reason your timetable will not save is because you have either a ‘Class Clash’ or ‘Class is Full’ error message.

Selecting the error message will provide you with more details.

See the next section for advice.

Error Messages

If you are receiving a ‘Class Clash’ error message you should firstly check if you have other classes available to choose from in My Timetable. If so, try selecting a class that does not clash with your other classes.

If you do not have other classes available, you should check if this unit is a core unit in your course by visiting the CQUni Handbook. If it is not a core unit, you should drop the unit and either re-enrol by distance education (if available) or enrol in a different elective. If you need help choosing an elective please contact your Student Advisor \(spc@cqu.edu.au\).

If you receive a 'Class Clash' error message for two or more of your core units please submit the Timetabling Enquiry eForm and our staff will assist you.

Quick Question: What is the difference between a core unit and an elective?

A core unit is listed in the CQUni Handbook as being a compulsory component of your course and generally cannot be substituted by another unit.

An elective is a unit that you may include in your course but is not compulsory for the completion of that course and can be substituted for another unit.

If the system displays a 'Class is Full' error message, the class you have selected has no further seats available. If you have multiple options, try selecting another class. If you do not have other options please submit the Timetabling Enquiry eForm and our staff will assist you.

If a class is full and it is necessary for you to attend that particular class, you will be required to provide evidence as to why you need to be placed in this particular class.

As the University is required to conform to Environmental Health and Safety regulations by not having overcrowded classes, students are generally unable to move into classes that are already full in order to:

- avoid inconvenient timeslots,
- attend classes with friends, or
- avoid coming to University for a single class on a given day.

1. Changing My Timetable

Once you have completed the timetable process you have until the Last Day to Add Units to change your class schedule, if multiple classes are available for your unit/s. To do this, click on the 'Set My Timetable' option within MyCQU.

The timetables you have previously selected for this term will appear. To change your preference, click 'Show Classes' and select your new schedule.

When you have completed the process and clicked 'Save Choices', your new timetable will appear on the page. Your new timetable will also be emailed to your CQUni Student Email Account, as will any subsequent changes that occur to the timetable. In addition to the email, your timetable will also be available in MyCQU at http://sportal.cqu.edu.au > View My Timetable.

2. Dropping units

A nightly process is run that automatically removes any dropped unit from your timetable. No email will be sent as a result of this process. If you would like to see the change sooner you should visit 'Set My Timetable' from MyCQU and select 'refresh'.

Students are able to drop units without penalties until the Census date each term. Academic and financial penalties apply to any student who withdraws after Census date. Students with special circumstances surrounding their withdrawal may apply for withdrawal without penalty. To determine what constitutes a special circumstance and the process that must be followed please visit the Withdrawal Without Penalty Guidelines and Forms.

3. Interpreting your timetable

Your timetable lists the classes you have selected for each lecture, tutorial or workshop required for that unit. The time, location, and weeks will also be listed. You may have a different time and location for different weeks throughout your unit so be sure to read your timetable carefully.
